

FILING A CIVIL SUIT IN FLORIDA

When filing a civil lawsuit in Florida you will need to decide if you are filing a claim that qualifies for Small Claims Court or filing a claim for a larger amount in either the County or Circuit Court. Each court has amount limits, and you will need to make the determination of what amount your lawsuit will ask for and then file your claim in the correct court.

County Court- Small Claims (Claims not exceeding $8,000.00)

If your case is asking for an amount not exceeding $8,000.00, it may qualify as a Small Claims suit. The Hillsborough County Clerk of Court has detailed instructions and forms: <https://hillsclerk.com/About-Us/Forms>. The following information is from the Clerk of Court's website, please refer to their website for more complete information.

File a Small Claims Case

You, the plaintiff, must file a "Statement of Claim" form, available at your Clerk's office. This must be fully completed and signed to receive a pre-trial conference date. If your claim is based upon written documentation, attach a copy of the contract to the Statement of Claim form. You may file by mail or in person.

What happens after the filing of a small claims case?

Each person or business being sued must be served with a Summons or Notice to appear in court on the date and time shown on the summons or notice. This court date will be a pre-trial conference, and parties should be prepared to present their case in court.

What is a pre-trial conference?

A pre-trial conference is an informal process to determine if there is a cause of action. If so, the court will refer the case to mediation. A trained mediator will try to negotiate a settlement before the case goes to trial. If the dispute is settled, it goes to the judge for approval without delay. If the dispute remains unsettled, a trial date will be set by the court. If you cannot be present at the pre-trial conference an attorney may represent you, a continuance may be arranged between both parties, a motion for continuance may be filed with the court.

What happens if a dispute goes to trial?

If a small claims dispute goes to trial, the court will schedule a trial date, and the parties must appear at the trial with all witnesses and documentation. At the trial, both parties will have an opportunity to explain the case to the judge. Witnesses will also have a chance to testify.

COUNTY COURT- Civil Court (Limits From $8,000.01 TO $50,000.00)

For claims between $8,000.01 to $50,000.00, there are no ready-made forms, packets, instructions or checklists similar to a Small Claims Court suit. If you wish to file a suit within these dollar parameters will need to do your own research to determine the process and the forms needed. There are generally very few fill-in the blank forms, so you may need to create forms from scratch using the templates provided in print materials as a guide. Please see the Resources in the James J. Lunsford Law Library portion of this document to get a list of these resources. For questions regarding filings, court fees etc., please contact the Clerk of Court.

CIRCUIT COURT- (Claims Above $50,000.00)

For claims $50,000.01 and above, there are no ready-made forms, packets, instructions or checklists similar to a Small Claims Court suit. If you wish to file a suit within these dollar parameters, you will need to do your own research to determine the process, and the forms needed.
